Vargas Completes Internship

Delta State University has an active internship program in many fields of business as well as in the arts and sciences. The Career Services and Placement office is partnering with faculty and employers to expand that program even more in the future.

Robert Vargas (pictured), a 1998 management and computer information systems graduate recently completed an internship with FedEx in Memphis in the internal audit department. Robert feels that Delta State prepared him for his job by not only giving him information, but also by teaching him how to think and problem solve. He also found that the experience gained through his internship helped to prepare him for the real world of business.

For more information on hiring Delta State graduates, contact Vicki Fioranelli, Director of Career Services and Placement, at (601) 846-4646 or e-mail vfioran@dsu.deltast.edu. Check the web page at www.deltast.edu/placement.

Editor's Notes

As always, we are happy to receive your many notes and messages. Thanks for keeping us informed.

- Four (4) DSU graduates were honored as 1998 Alumni of the Year by their respective community colleges. Viola Sanders ('41) by Mississippi Delta; Dr. Ron Chance ('68) by Northwest; Jim Golden ('82) by Holmes; and Nick Clark ('68) by East Mississippi.
- Thanks to Chris Wilson ('95) for noting our mistake in incorrectly listing his job location in the fall issue. Chris is City Administrator for Southaven, MS.
- Are pleased that Ella Lucas, former "First Lady" at DSU and USM, was a 1998 inductee of the USM Alumni Hall of Fame. Class Lady!
- Col. Thomas Moore ('82), USMC, was the commanding officer in charge of evacuating 105 American citizens and 61 international personnel from the African country of Eritrea. Accounts of this successful operation were detailed on the floor of the U.S. Senate and recorded in the Congressional Record on July 20, 1998.
- Dr. Bill Jenkins ('70) of Morton, sent us a copy of his book, Two Hundred Years of Heritage and Hope. He writes, "Over the years, I have realized the value of a good education, and feel I got the best available. I am a proud product of DSU!"
- Sam Adams ('36) is a co-author of a collection of short stories titled Persons, Places & Things, which is a reflection of Sam's lifelong interest in people-watching.
- Appreciated receiving a copy of 1848-1998, The History of the First Baptist Church, Kosciusko, MS, donated to the DSU Library by Cadmon and Anne Hughes Porter ('55).
- Have noticed that Elizabeth Shown Mills' ('65) latest book, Evidence! Citation and Analysis for the Family Historian, released in 1997, is already in its 4th hardback printing.
- Charlene Baugh Jones ('76), editor of The Computer Times in Bardstown, KY, scans each issue of Currents for familiar names and faces. She writes, "I have noticed over the years that the quality of Delta Currents has increased appreciably."
- Dr. Patricia Anderson ('75), East Carolina University professor, writes, "I have many fond memories of Tom Merritt, Eloise Walker and others helping me grow and learn. I carry their 'badge of honor' into my own classes and strive to be the kind of professional they were during my time at Delta State."
- Joanna Harvey Bearden ('65) and Gaines Bearden ('64) of Denver, CO invite their friends to contact them at jbeardn@aol.com.

Greenville Higher Education Center Comes To Life

Local and state officials were on hand Friday, December 4, 1998 to participate in groundbreaking ceremonies for the new Greenville Higher Education Center. Plans call for the $12 million, 75,000 square foot facility to be constructed south of the city.

The realization of this center is a combined effort of local officials, the area's legislative delegation, and the three academic institutions (Delta State, Mississippi Valley and Mississippi Delta Community College) responsible for implementing curriculum. Curtis Buchanan, chairman of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and member of the DSU Foundation Board of Directors, said that the center "is a long-term dream that has become a reality. It is the result of a lot of hard work. With this project, there was a unity among our people we've never seen before."

Delta State's Vice President for Business Affairs Dr. Bob Nettles, who will serve as the contact person on the project, pointed out that the center will be a three-story, L-shaped structure with 25 classrooms, faculty offices, administrative area, computer labs, two distance-learning classrooms and large multi-purpose room with catering facilities. It is anticipated that construction will take until November 2000 with classes to start as early 2001.

Leadership Letters

DSU Foundation President's Letter

Ned Mitchell

Dr. Kent Wyatt's announcement that he will be retiring as President on June 30, 1999, was unwelcome news for the entire Delta State family. He is a great leader and holds the respect and admiration of everyone who has any connection with or knows about Delta State University. His years as President have been the most successful in Delta State's history and the University has attained heights that could not have been dreamed of 24 years ago. The Clarion Ledger says, "his greatest achievement may have been his long standing steady hand at the helm." I agree with and echo this, but must add that his vision for the University, his incredible ability for superb fiscal management, his total dedication and love for the University and most of all his unquestioned integrity - these things, along with that steady hand, all congregate to become his greatest achievement.

The Wyatt years of leadership have brought us to unparalleled heights, and as we enter our 75th year and start toward our Centennial, I envision our institution as being on a plateau. We need to use this plateau as a trailhead to begin the climb for more and more achievement. The Foundation is ready, through its partnership with the institution, to help take the lead in this climb for success through its private support efforts.

As Delta State becomes 75 years old and ventures into its next quarter century of opportunity, I would like to see our University be the catalyst that sparks an economic, educational and cultural renaissance in the middle south. We can be successful in this quest by universally promoting the school, by increasing our student population and interacting more and more with our alumni and friends, while interfacing with the interests of the communities and businesses in our sphere of influence. The Delta State University Foundation stands ready to help make our goals a reality.

Sincerely,

DSU Alumni Association President's Letter

On behalf of the Delta State University Alumni Association, I want to thank you for the continued support exhibited during 1998. Thanks to the dedicated efforts of Mickey Robinson, Association Past President; Dr. Don Skelton, Executive Director; and the DSU Alumni Association staff, the Association was successful in many areas during 1998.

Each year the DSU Alumni Association faces new challenges. The first challenge for 1999 is the retirement of Dr. Kent Wyatt after 24 years of leadership as President. Dr. Wyatt's accomplishments during his tenure are well chronicled in this issue. The most impressive has been his ability to guide the University through the severe fiscal problems of the late 1980s and the potential consequences of the Ayers' case and have the University emerge stronger and even more vital.

Dr. Wyatt will be remembered both as an effective administrator and as a loyal champion of Delta State University. Since serving as the first full-time director of the Alumni Association, he has remained actively engaged with the Association. Although his presence will be sorely missed, we applaud his ability to leave truly at the top of his game. The DSU Alumni Association Board of Directors will do everything in its power to provide positive input into the selection of his successor.

Realizing that the volunteering of one's time is one of life's most precious gifts, I ask that you "get involved" by becoming an active volunteer for Delta State and the Alumni Association. We need your help as we prepare for a new millenium.

Sincerely,

DSU Graduate Heads Corporate Change

Steve Suhowatsky

Steve Suhowatsky attended Delta State from 1961 to 1964. In addition to being an excellent student during that time, he was also a member of the Statesmen basketball team. There is a good chance he occasionally heard his coaches refer to the importance of athletes developing their strength, speed, agility and endurance.

When Suhowatsky, president of Syracuse Supply Company since 1983, envisioned a new name and new organization for the company, he recalled those qualities which had contributed to the survival and success of the 114 year old company. The qualities that came to mind were strength, speed, and agility. Today, the company's name is Panthus Corporation.

While the above-mentioned qualities have played important roles, he considers the most significant attribute to be the company's ability to change as the market changes and to anticipate the changes. Also paramount to the survival of Panthus has been its history of integrity. "There is a long history of a high degree of integrity with our constituents .. vendors, customers, and employees, and the business community in general .. companies that have the highest degree of integrity are the most successful over a long period of time."

As to the future of Panthus, Suhowatsky says, "Today we're looking at somewhere between 10-and 20-percent growth per year based on our core businesses (equipment distribution and technology services). And we're looking at acquisitions to expand that growth even more." As to his personal goals, "I want to get Panthus to at least a half-billion-dollar company. And I want to put in place a system for the development of management and people skills that is more organized than we have today .. so that when I walk away I'll leave a healthy, well-managed company behind."

Following his graduation from Delta State in 1964 with a Bachelor of Science degree and major in accounting and after receiving his MBA from the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania in 1966, Suhowatsky began his professional career as assistant treasurer with Eagle Picher Industries. He was named Syracuse Supply Company's president after serving seven years (1975-82) as president of Eagle Picher Bearings.

Active in civic, social and professional organizations, Suhowatsky is a past chairman and member of the Board of Directors for the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce, the Metropolitan Development Association and chairman of the Lakefront Development Corporation. He was the 1998 chairman for the Syracuse Boy Power Campaign with the Boy Scouts of America and currently sits on the board of directors for numerous business and health service organizations.

For his contributions, he was named an Entrepreneur of the Year Finalist in 1994, recognized as Chairman of the Year AGC New York in both 1984 and 1989, and received the Rebuilding America Award in 1998.

Listed in "Who's Who in Finance and Industry," "Who's Who in America" and Who's Who in the Midwest," he was named Delta State's "Outstanding Alumnus" in 1984.

He and his wife, the former Gail Hartness of Indianola, a 1965 DSU graduate, have three children and currently reside in Fayetteville, N.Y.

Bruckner At Home With NASA

Bobby Gene Bruckner

Bobby Gene Bruckner, a Drew native now residing in Merritt Island, FL, graduated from Delta State in 1966 earning a bachelor's degree with honors in mathematics. He would later (1971) receive his master's degree in electrical engineering from Florida Institute of Technology. His wife, the former Marilyn Everitt, graduated from Delta State in 1967 with a bachelor's degree in biology and went on to receive her medical technology degree. Both Marilyn and Bobby graduated from Drew High School and were both valedictorians of their respective classes.

Immediately following graduation from Delta State, Bruckner joined NASA in June 1966, as an engineer, responsible for developing telemetry and data display systems used in the test and checkout of Apollo/Saturn launch vehicles. He later served as Director of Payload Ground System. As a senior executive at NASA, Bruckner is now responsible for the management and technical direction of preflight checkout and integration of Space Shuttle and expendable vehicle payloads. This includes customer payloads, Spacelab, special structures, deployable payloads, and upper stages. He meets with visiting Heads of State and other foreign dignitaries, as well as the United States corporate dignitaries regarding payloads.

Among Bruckner's many honors are NASA's Exceptional Service Medal and NASA's Leadership Medal. He also received numerous letters of appreciation for his organization's role in support of final assembly and launch of payloads including the recent Mars Pathfinder Probe.

A member of IEEE (Institute of Electronics & Electrical Engineers) and the NASA-Kennedy Management Association, Bruckner has held numerous civic organization leadership positions, including serving as the 1997 Vice Chairman of the Space Congress and past chairman of the Brevard County Combined Federal Campaign. In addition, he has served as an adjunct professor at Florida Institute of Technology, University of Central Florida, and Brevard Community College.

From Russia With Love

What a difference a year makes! Robert ('83) and Marjorie Taylor ('85) and their new babies, Spencer and Lauren, can definitely say that after celebrating their family's first Christmas and New Year's holidays together in their recently remodeled home in Cleveland.

Remodeling the house proved a much easier task than the red tape experienced by the Taylors as they sought to complete the adoption process for Lauren and Spencer. Applying for adoption in April, 1998, the process began with review of videos of Russian children available for adoption. Spencer was the first to be accepted and approved. Then came the delays as the couple waited for videos of little girls to arrive. "It wasn't the easiest thing to get videos in," said Taylor. "At first it seemed real easy, but the rules changed as the game was played and it became harder to get the children's videos."

Leaving for Russia on October 15, the Taylors began their trip to meet the babies with a lengthy flight to the city of Vladivostok via Moscow where they met their adoption agency representative. Soon after arriving in Vladivostok, they were taken to see Lauren. Not used to seeing people and having never seen a man before, the meeting proved stressful for both Lauren and the prospective parents as she cried throughout their visit. On October 18, the Taylors were taken to see Spencer who was in a children's hospital wing that served as an orphanage. Spencer had spent the eight months since his birth inside this wing.

Following a brief appearance in court on October 20 to gain custody of the children, the Taylors were able to get Spencer the next day and Lauren a day later. Following the completion of a required 10-day waiting period, the family flew to Moscow where they would obtain visas for the children. The final piece to the puzzle was completed with their arrival in Jackson, MS, after 24 hours in flight.

Once in Cleveland, Spencer and Lauren wasted little time in making themselves at home, and life in the Taylor house is definitely happy.

G. W. "Willie" Gilliam - #1 Storyteller

Keith Fulcher and "Mr. Willie" share a moment at the N.E. Mississippi chapter meeting in Tupelo

He could always be counted on to thrill the crowd." Well, he still thrills the crowd!

Several years ago, Gilliam decided to enter the senior "Storytelling" talent competition at the North Mississippi Fair in Verona. After winning first place, he decided to enter the Mid-South Fair competition in Memphis. Once again, he was victorious and lay claim to the title of Champion Storyteller of the Mid-South.

A brief visit with "Mr. Willie" quickly convinces you that his enthusiasm for life has served as a blessing to all who have come in contact with him. His retirement has served as an extension of the humor-inspired life that typified his professional career as a teacher, coach, 4-H advisor, and county agent for Pontotoc County.

G. W. "Willie" Gilliam graduated from Delta State University Teachers College in 1940. The yearbook from that year, The Broom, states that, after transferring from Holmes Junior College, he was a member of the football and basketball teams and "M" Club his two years at Delta State Teachers College. A closer look reveals the following: "#10 - Willie Gilliam, (Sr.), forward from Rocky Ford was a real ball handler.

Born and raised in Union County, Gilliam often reflects upon his rural up-bringing by stating "We lived so far out, whenever we went hunting we had to go toward town." Attending school in the Macedonia community, he discovered two loves of his life - basketball and his soon-to-be-wife of many years, Delia. Following these discoveries, Gilliam became so fond of school he says, "I just decided to stay another year before graduating. I guess that's where the redshirt program started."

A favorite story of Gilliam is that of his "War" experience. During World War II, he enlisted in the Navy and was assigned to Millington Naval Base, where he supervised physical training for the next 3 1/2 years. Finally, he received orders to go overseas. As he prepared for his departure, word suddenly came that all transfers were canceled. "They'd just got word that the war was over," he recalled. "All I could figure was that they (Japan) heard I was on the way and just gave up."

At age 82 and a dedicated Christian, "Mr. Willie" shares his humor and faith equally as he visits with civic groups, church groups and gatherings of all ages. He is fond of quoting "A merry heart doeth good, like a medicine." Yes - he is still thrilling the crowds!

Griffis To Head Mississippi State Foundation

Bryce Griffis of Starkville, a 1954 business administration graduate of Delta State University, has been elected president of the Mississippi State University Foundation.

As foundation president, he leads a non-profit organization that has helped raise more than $116 million in the past 5 years, while the endowment has grown from $79 million to more than $150 million.

Named Delta State's Alumnus of the Year in 1986, Griffis was a member of the Board of Trustees, Institutions of Higher Learning from 1980 to 1992, serving as president in 1986-87. He currently is a trustee of Wood College and the Mississippi United Methodist Foundation, as well as chairman of the advisory board for the Starkville branch of Deposit Guaranty National Bank.

A past president of the Mississippi Forestry Association and the Southeastern Lumber Manufacturers Association, Griffis is president of Sturgis Timber Company.

Nichols - Scientist and Author

Dr. Wilmer W. "Wimp" Nichols, a 1960 graduate of Delta State University, was recognized as the recipient of the Gifted Scientist Award, given by the Florida Chapter of the American College of Cardiology at its annual meeting October 30-31, 1998, in Orlando.

Nichols, named as Delta State University's "Outstanding Alumnus" in 1980, has also been notified that his latest book, McDonald's Blood Flow in Arteries: Theoretical, Experimental and Clinical Principles, 4th Edition, has received a five-star rating by Doody Publishing, recognized as the foremost independent reviewer of health sciences and nursing books. It is noted that only five percent of the books that are reviewed receive this highest rating.

A Booneville native, Nichols and his wife, Arlene, reside in Gainesville, Florida, where he teaches and conducts research with the University of Florida, College of Medicine, Division of Cardiology.

Noted conservative William F. Buckley, Jr. will give the inaugural address in the recently endowed Livingston Distinguished Speaker Series at Delta State University's Bologna Performing Arts Center. Buckley will visit the University on October 28, 1999.

Established by Jon and Bruce Livingston and named in honor of their family's longtime commitment to Delta State, the series will bring a leading public figure to the campus each year to speak and interact with the University and Delta communities.

"I am happy to travel to the homeland of Jon and Bruce Livingston, and it pleases me to be once again in the state where my mother was born and raised," Buckley said.

For more information, call 1-800-468-6378, ext. 6.

Hearin Foundation Makes $83,000 Grant

The Robert M. Hearin Foundation has awarded Delta State University a grant of $83,000 to support two new programs.

The University's graduate program was awarded $45,000 to support graduate fellowships in the Master of Science in Community Development. Fellowships of $5,000 each will be awarded to three graduate students each year who will study and conduct research with faculty and staff in Delta State University's Center for Community Development.

The Delta State University Department of Physical Sciences received a $38,000 grant to fund a program which will help secondary school students, college students, the general public and agricultural industry understand technology and its application and implication through a series of seminars, workshops and conferences.

Dr. Bennie and Millie Wright Make Gift

Dr. Bennie Wright of Cleveland and his wife, Millie, recently made a $50,000 gift to the Delta State University Foundation to be divided equally between two funds. Twenty-five thousand dollars goes to the Excellence in Science Program and $25,000 to the Kent and Janice Wyatt Faculty Development Program.

"Delta State helped me earn my medical degree, and the University also helped Millie in her nursing career," Wright said. "We wanted to show our gratitude through our gift to support the needs of the students and the faculty."

Dr. Wright earned his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Delta State in 1974 and 1975, while Millie Wright, a registered nurse, received her bachelor of science degree in nursing at Delta State in 1990.

The Phil Hardin Foundation Makes $75,000 Lead Gift

Mr. Tom Wacaster (left), Vice-president for Educational Programs and Research for the Meridian-based Phil Hardin Foundation, presented a $75,000 gift to establish The Kent and Janice Wyatt Faculty Development Endowment Fund. The late Mr. Hardin built the Hardin Bakeries Corporation into a highly successful Mississippi business. In 1964, he established a charitable foundation to be used for furthering the education of Mississippians.

The Kent and Janice Wyatt Faculty Development Fund helps to accomplish this goal by creating an endowment that will support projects allowing faculty members to travel to acquire new skills and knowledge, plan and implement special academic, artistic and intellectual events, and bring visiting scholars to campus.

"This is a significant gift that will serve to enrich the educational environment for our students through the opportunities provided to and for the Delta State University faculty," said Dr. Don A. Skelton, Executive Director of the Alumni and Foundation. Gifts to this fund in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Wyatt may be sent to Box 3141, Cleveland, MS 38733.

DSU Athletics: A Program of Success!

by Dr. Don A. Skelton

As an alumnus, I am always interested in hearing how visiting fans and professionals from other communities and schools look upon the Delta State athletic program, our coaches, athletes, and facilities.

First, let me say that the results are overwhelmingly positive in that people envy our program and its record of success. They look upon our athletes as talented and dedicated student-athletes who strive for success in and out of class. They look upon our coaches as professionals who not only know how to win but how to win the "right" way. They look upon our facilities as being among the best in the nation for a school our size.

Oddly enough, those of us closest to the action sometime fail to fully realize what an excellent job has been done in molding the Statesmen and Lady Statesmen athletic teams into a nationally-recognized program of which we can all be proud. I remember Coach Ferriss telling me that "sometimes we can't see what we have because we are too close to it." As usual, Boo was right!

While we are counting our blessings, we also need to recognize that all of the above didn't just happen. Somewhere along the way, the "right" administrative decisions were made to make this program the best. Many memorable names from the past come to mind as having a role in laying the foundation, but three current administrators have and are playing key roles. First and foremost, Dr. Kent Wyatt, a former athlete, has provided guidance and leadership for the past 24 years in the development of a comprehensive program, based upon the principles of quality teaching and sportsmanship. Next, Dr. Jim Jordan has readily accepted the challenge of molding and maintaining a program of excellence despite the existing fiscal limitations imposed by the State. Lastly, Dr. Milton Bradley has admirably fulfilled the role of faculty representative, ensuring the integrity of the program and university. These three men are recognized nationally, representing Delta State and the NCAA in various leadership roles.

The athletic program at Delta State was molded by people who cared. It has been maintained by people who care. As long as we focus on having quality student-athletes, coaches, and administrators, others will echo, "they have a great athletic program."

Kuhn Looking At Higher Goals

First-year Lady Statesmen softball coach David Kuhn plans to continue the winning ways established by the past teams, who have won the Gulf South Conference West Division the past three seasons. "It is my hope that within the next four years we will be in the NCAA regionals. It would bother me not to succeed as I expect us to perform well and win."

Coming to Delta State from Washington School in Greenville, Kuhn began his coaching career at Greenville Christian School in January 1993. He worked there as an assistant football coach, head baseball coach for two years and as the softball coach for one season. In 1997, he worked as a graduate assistant under Delta State University baseball coach Mike Kinnison.

David Kuhn

Knight Returns to Alma Mater

Todd Knight, who led Delta State to its first Gulf South Conference football title in 1998, resigned in January to become the head football coach at his alma mater, Quachita Baptist University. Knight headed the Delta State University football program from 1993-1998, recording a 28-32-2 record.

Statesmen Reap Conference Honors

Five Delta State University players were named to the 1998 first-team All-Conference Football Team and six others were second-team picks.

Chosen to the first-team were running back Casey Macke, center Andrew Aldridge, tackle Chris Rankin, and defensive linemen Melvin Houston and Kevin Thomas. Second-team honorees were Rick Walker, Willie Ducksworth, Jaton Jackson, Ricky Franklin, Johnathon Mitchell and Rory Bell.

Statesmen Baseballers Ranked #14

The NCAA Division II baseball coaches have picked the Delta State University baseball team to once again be among the top programs in 1999 as the Statesmen are pre-season ranked #14 in the nation. Following a 39-12 campaign in 1998, the Statesmen return two quality pitchers in Jeremy McClain (9-3) and Jeremy Luse (8-4). Among the five returning position player starters are OF Dee Haynes, one of the nation's best offensive players (.392, 21 HR, 74 RBI), C Neil Bartling (.312), 1B/C Jason Cochran (.360, 14 HR, 60 RBI), 2B Todd Bossier (.319), and 3B Brian Rea (.439, 38 RBI). With a two-year record of 75-32, Coach Mike Kinnison is looking forward to another season as the Statesmen defend their Western Division Championship in the Gulf South Conference.

Campbell Named DSU Football Coach

Steve Campbell, a former DSU assistant coach, was named Delta State's Head Football Coach on January 26, 1999. In announcing Campbell's hiring, DSU Athletics Director Dr. Jim Jordan stated, "We are excited about Steve coming back to Delta State. His coaching background is perfect for Delta State."

"I am thrilled to have an opportunity to return to Delta State," Campbell said. "Todd Knight has done a good job of building the program and we need to take it to the next level where we are competing every year for not only the conference championship but also the national championship," continued Campbell.

The 32-year old Campbell comes to Delta State from Southwest Community College where he has been the head coach for the past two years. His first Southwest team compiled a 5-5 mark - the school's first non-losing season in a decade. In 1998, Campbell led Southwest to its first winning season in 12 years, posting a 7-3 record. He was the South squad's head coach in the 1998 Mississippi Junior College All-Star Game.

Beginning his coaching career in 1988, he was a graduate assistant on Pat Dye's Auburn staff for two years, with the Tigers winning two SEC Championships, the 1989 Sugar Bowl and the 1990 Hall of Fame Bowl. Campbell came to Delta State in 1990 and stayed until 1993. He later served as offensive coordinator for the Nichols State Colonels until 1996 before moving to Southwest Community College.

Campbell was a four-year starter during his collegiate career. He was an All-Gulf South Conference selection in 1987 and was named academic all-conference three times. He holds a B.S. in Economics from Troy State and a Master's of Business Administration from Auburn.

Campbell and his wife, Shellie have two children, Kelsie, 7, and Steven, 6.

Inaugural Class of Inductees Announced for Women's Basketball Hall of Fame

The Women's Basketball Hall of Fame has announced that Delta State's Lusia Harris Stewart and Coach Margaret Wade are to be recognized in its inaugural class of inductees. This historic class, which honors legends from the 106-year history of the women's game, includes 26 men and women who have helped establish, shape and define women's basketball.

Wade, who was instrumental in pioneering the resurrection of women's collegiate basketball in the U.S., established a 157-23 record during her 6-year stint as head coach for the Lady Statesmen. The Wade Trophy, established to recognize the nation's top collegiate female basketball player, was named in her honor in 1978.

Credited with scoring the first points in women's Olympic basketball competition, Stewart was a dominant force in the women's game in the 70's. Known for her aggressive style and strength, the three-time Kodak All-American is considered by many to be the best women's center ever.

The Stewart-Wade combination led Delta State to consecutive national championships in 1975, 1976 and 1977 and were the first women inductees into the Basketball Hall of Fame in Springfield, Mass.

The Wyatt Years 1975-1999

“Quality Without Compromise”

When it was announced in the early afternoon of January 20 that a meeting of faculty, staff and students would be held at 3:45 p.m., most of us knew that it probably had something to do with our president's retirement plans. What we didn't realize was his plan to leave the presidency June 30, 1999. While it had been speculated that the time for his retirement was coming, the reality of a firm date of happening hit hard and was unwelcome news to all.

Realizing the potential importance of the meeting, most of us arrived early. As expected, the first to greet everyone was Kent Wyatt, a smile on his face and hand extended. As we waited for Wyatt's comments, my thoughts were of the setting he had chosen to make this important announcement. The facility he chose was the Performing Arts Center, a dream of Wyatt's that became a reality and is now the "cultural center" for the Mississippi Delta. The audience he chose were those he most credits with the institution's success, its faculty, staff and students.

After announcing his retirement plans, Wyatt continued, "When I first addressed the faculty as your President in August of 1975, I stated that I was determined that Delta State would stand against the rising tide of grade inflation and diminishing academic quality, even if we should stand alone." Assuming that his original comments were just the customary rhetoric associated with inaugural addresses, we may not have paid much attention at the time. Today, as we look back over Wyatt's years of leadership, we find that he has accepted all challenges to his pledge and Delta State's reputation of being an institution of academic quality remains unquestioned.

On January 16, 1975, the Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning appointed Dr. Forest Kent Wyatt to the DSU presidency effective July 1, 1975. Over the next 24 years the university would experience dramatic growth in many areas, including student enrollment, physical plant, academic recognition and private giving to the institution. Eighteen new buildings would be constructed and many others renovated; the number of faculty would increase from 202 to 328; every academic program would gain national accreditation; and Foundation assets would increase more than tenfold.

During his address Wyatt expressed his admiration for a student body who is confronted daily by the many temptations of a changing society and continues to "share our belief in a high quality of education without compromise."

He praised a faculty and staff who "could have left a listing ship but stayed" during the late '80s and early '90s when not only jobs but the university itself was threatened with elimination. It was a period that Wyatt refers to as "perhaps the bleakest time for higher education in Mississippi."

He thanked his wife for sharing her strength and counsel throughout his professional life, saying, "I owe Janice a great deal and I acknowledge that to you today." As he spoke of Janice, my thoughts were of the countless functions they have attended over the years in behalf of Delta State and how fortunate we are to have had the two of them as our President and First Lady.

In concluding his remarks, Wyatt said, "Very few people have the opportunity to live their dream for 24 years. Growing up on this campus and becoming its fifth president has indeed been the fulfillment of my professional life."

Following his comments, those in attendance rewarded Wyatt with a warm, lasting and well-deserved standing ovation. It was an emotional time for all and especially for the couple who have been "head cheerleaders" for Delta State for over 40 years.
